Alice Ann Address, who celebrates her 18th birthday today, has picked the perfect day to serve as the Pocono Record's "Girl of the Month" for August. Alice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Address, 135 Center St., East Stroudsburg, and plans to train as a laboratory technician at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Czech, Soviet talks hit last minute snag

PRAGUE (AP) — An apparent last-minute snag sent Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders into conference again Wednesday night after what had been thought the closing session of summit talks on Czechoslovakia's future.

There was speculation difficulties developed over the wording of the communique on the results of Moscow's efforts to swing the liberal-minded Czechoslovaks back to orthodox communism.

Informal sources said Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev rejoined the talks after being ill in the afternoon. The sources said the talks would continue into Thursday.

There was no explanation for the reversal.

Earlier, sources said the conference had shown "a certain softening" in the Soviet position.

Qualified sources said the stocky, 61-year-old secretary-general of the Soviet Communist party stayed aboard the Soviet special train at the conference site, the Slovak village of Cierna, a mile from the Russian frontier.

Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak party chief whose reform program over the last six months has stirred Moscow's ire, visited Brezhnev on the train during a lunch break in the conference proceedings.

The nature of Brezhnev's illness was not disclosed. Informants said, however, they understood it was nothing serious. A report in Vienna, capital of neighboring Austria, said he had suffered a spell of faintness.

There was a rumor in Moscow some years ago that he had a heart attack. He was reported to have had a bout with influenza in early June. But he has appeared to enjoy generally good health since he succeeded Nikita S. Khrushchev as chief of the Soviet party in October 1964.

Nixon calls for crusade against crime in streets

Reagan, Lindsay hit record

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called for a "militant crusade against crime" Wednesday and two other big guns, Ronald Reagan and John V. Lindsay, joined in a bombardment of the administration's anticrime record.

The former vice president sent a special message to the Republican Platform Committee hearings declaring that the party has a duty to "re-establish domestic peace—to restore freedom from fear to the American people."

Neither the poor nor the rich are above the law, Nixon added, saying: "Poverty, despair, anger, past wrongs can no longer be allowed to excuse or justify violence or crime or lawlessness."

The day's hearings underscored some predictions that crime in the nation's streets may be made the GOP's biggest campaign issue, outranking Vietnam and poverty.

New York's Mayor Lindsay hit at crime in his personal platform hearing appearance. Gov. Reagan of California hit it even harder—and got the biggest applause to date of the pre-convention hearings.

Reagan was greeted with squeals, screams and handclapping by some 150 supporters—mostly children and women—as he entered the lobby of the plush Fontainebleau hotel. Though he is nominally a favorite son candidate, his cheerers had Reagan banners, signs, hats and lapel badges.

Inside the hearing, Reagan called for a halt to Communist expansion abroad and to crime and violence at home. He became the first witness in three days of hearings to be interrupted by applause. It happened twice, the first time when he said:

"We must reject the idea that every time a law is broken, society is guilty rather than the lawbreaker. It is time to restore the American precept that each individual is accountable for his actions."

The second outburst came when Reagan denounced "small bands of revolutionaries, egged on by subversive agitators" who, Reagan said, "plan to take over, or cripple our institutions of higher learning." There were cheers and whistles when he added:

"It is time to move against these destructive dissidents; it is time to say: 'Obey the rules or get out.'"

Lindsay got sustained applause from spectators and members of the 100-member Platform Committee headed by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

New charges made in jail escape plot

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Sheriff's office has announced further findings after investigation into various sources to gather evidence in connection with the jail break of April 17.

Arraigned on Wednesday before Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace Floyd W. Kellogg were Neil Cornwell and his wife, Audrey, of Tobyhanna, for aiding in the prison breach.

Cornwell had been committed to jail since February on a burglary charge awaiting grand jury trial.

According to Sheriff Forrest Sebring, Cornwell was alleged to have passed a key to his wife who had another set of keys made, prior to the jail break.

Mrs. Cornwell was released after posting $500 bond. A hearing is scheduled before Kellogg on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan testifies before the Republican Platform Committee Wednesday. From left, members of the committee are: Gov. Walter J. Hickel; Alaska; Sen. Roman L. Hruska,

Nebraska; Gov. John Chafee, Rhode Island; Sen. Everett Dirksen, Illinois; Sen. Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania, and Gov. Louis B. Nunn, Kentucky. (UPI Telephoto)

Reagan acts like candidate — but denies filling role

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — California's Ronald Reagan performed in Miami Beach Wednesday, acting like the presidential candidate he said he is not—and confiding that Republican supporters are "springing up around the country."

While political proxies argued the causes of Republican front-runner Richard M. Nixon and campaigning challenger Nelson A. Rockefeller, Reagan plowed through crowds in the lobby of the Fontainebleau Hotel, talked with Florida delegates to the GOP national convention, and insisted he would not solicit the presidential nomination.

"This movement has come from other people," he said. "I myself would not seek the nomination from my party as a newly elected governor of California."

At a news conference, Reagan rectified his political litany: he is a favorite son candidate from California, he is not actively pursuing the nomination, but if the delegates want to consider him, that is their decision. And Reagan said no man could refuse to serve if summoned.

"I think he would have to accept," the governor said. "That's a responsibility of citizenship."

Reagan's political lieutenants seemed to be taking this responsibility quite seriously. One of them estimated that the Californian now has 180 to 200 delegates on his side, and said Reagan will decline no invitation to address delegate caucuses in advance of the convention. That is standard procedure for a man hunting support.

Coyness certainly was no mark of the Nixon and Rockefeller camps.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's top spokesman, announced that his candidate is actively soliciting the opinions of party leaders as to who would make his best vice presidential running mate.

Klein said Nixon is looking for an able campaigner who would be qualified to succeed.

The eyes of Miami nightclub singer Julie Revere leave no doubt where her political sentiments lie as they spell out a team of "Rocky and Kirk" as her choice for the GOP presidential and vice-presidential nominations. (UPI Telephoto)

Rooney joins HHH unit

(Record Washington Bureau) WASHINGTON — Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., joined 60 of his House colleagues Wednesday in forming the "Congressmen for Humphrey Committee."

Sporting an orange-and-blue Humphrey button on his lapel, Rooney was present as the vice president made a brief statement of thanks and answered reporters' questions.

The committee is headed by Reps. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., James O'Hara, D-Mich., and Jim Wright, D-Texas.

A total of 11 Pennsylvanians, more than any other state group, are on the committee. They include Reps. James A. Byrne, Frank M. Clark, John H. Dent, Joshua Eilberg, Elmer J. Holland, William S. Moorhead, Thomas E. Morgan, Robert N. C. Nix, George M. Rhodes and Joseph P. Vigorito.

Special coverage from convention

STROUDSBURG — Plans to give readers of the Pocono Record special coverage of next week's Republican National Convention in Miami Beach were announced Wednesday by James J. Riley, Editor.

A team of four reporters representing the Record and other newspapers in the Ottaway group is setting up a news bureau at Miami's Convention Hall.

Heading the team will be Robert S. Van Fleet, chief of the Ottaway News Service, who covers Legislative and political affairs.

With him will be three members of the Record's Washington Bureau. They are Donald R. Larrabee, Mathew V. Storin, and David B. Ottaway.

Special arrangements have been made for the installation of a high-speed teletype in Convention Hall to deliver news to the newsroom here in Monroe County on a 100-words-a-minute machine already installed.

The special report of the Record team will supplement the coverage provided by wire service stories and photographs. Van Fleet, Larrabee, Storin, and Ottaway will also cover local delegates, the sessions of the Pennsylvania State Delegation, and general Convention news.

They will work on the Convention floor when it is in session. In the committees, at State caucuses, and in the Convention hotels where delegates are staying.

Most delegates will be arriving in Miami Beach on Sunday. The Convention's first session is scheduled for Monday.

The same team will also cover the Democratic National Convention which opens in Chicago on Aug. 26.

Homeowners feel pinch

Cost of living rises again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home buyers and home owners bore the brunt of a sharp increase in June in the cost of living.

The Labor Department reported Wednesday that practically everything for the consumer went up, particularly apparel, gasoline and cigarettes.

The cost of living, called the consumer price index, rose 0.5 per cent in June over the previous month, reaching a level of 120.9 (compared to the base of 100 in 1957-59). It cost 4.2 per cent more to live in June of this year than in June of last year.

The monthly advance was the largest since February 1966.

For the American buying a new home, Labor Department statisticians said mortgage interest charges rose nearly 4 per cent in June.

For the American who already has his home, the cost rose with advancing property taxes, home insurance rates and charges for home decoration and repair.

Rents went up 0.3 per cent "in continuation of an accelerated upward movement," the department said.

A bright spot was the cost of eating at home. Actually, food and beverage prices went up but not as much as expected, and, seasonally adjusted they fell 0.3 per cent at retail and 1.5 per cent at wholesale.

Prices dropped for many fresh vegetables and most fresh fruits. The cost of meat went up, but poultry prices went up less than usual.

The cost of eating out increased for the 54th consecutive month.

Clothing prices went up for the 10th consecutive month. Apparel prices rose 0.5 per cent, seasonally adjusted, led by women's clothing and footwear.

Wholesale prices increased 0.2 per cent, to a level of 108.7, which was 2.3 per cent above a year ago. Industrial commodity prices returned to their April level following a small decline in May.

Preliminary data for July showed a 0.4 per cent increase in wholesale prices.

Despite the rises in the cost of living, the department said real earnings, or what a worker has to spend, advanced to record levels.

Gross earnings for the average worker rose to $108.20 a week in June. Spendable earnings, which are gross pay less federal income and Social Security taxes, were $95.55 a week for the worker with three dependents, up $1.15 a week from May.

Sidewalk days to open today

Two largest steel producers announce increase in prices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's two biggest steel producers announced price increases Wednesday. One of them the first across the board hike since the dramatic industry price battle with President Kennedy in 1962.

Other companies hinted they were ready to follow, saying more revenue was needed to compensate for the new billion-dollar-plus contract won by the United Steelworkers Union Tuesday night.

"Our decision will be based entirely on costs... and not any noise from Washington," said Inland Steel, which in 1962 stood against the general price increase and started the roll-back.

Since then, the industry has raised prices piecemeal, hoping to avoid another confrontation with the many weapons of the federal government. That's why Bethlehem Steel's announcement of an increase of almost 5 per cent on base prices, effective Aug. 8, spread surprise across the industry.

"The price increases are expected to add only enough to revenues to offset cost increases just incurred or expected in the next several months," said Bethlehem, the nation's second largest producer.

"Selective price increases have not been effective in offsetting smaller increases than those now facing Bethlehem. A general price increase is the only method available to alleviate the financial problem which would otherwise occur in the immediate future."

U.S. Steel Corp., the biggest producer by far and usually the pacesetter for industry prices, posted a new list of prices for its tin mill products that adds up to an over-all increase.

How much the company wouldn't say. But of the six most popular items, four went up as much as 9.7 per cent, one went down 1.9 per cent, and one remained the same.

Tin products accounted for about 7 per cent of last year's industrywide shipments, and possibly as much as 10 to 12 per cent of revenue—a big item. The increases are effective Oct. 1.

There was no immediate comment from the White House, which only last week called for wage and price restraint in the second half of the year to preserve the economy-dampening effect of the new tax surcharge.

The White House also made no comment on the union's new wage and benefits package, which is estimated at a 6.5 per cent increase over each year of a three-year contract. That falls within the broad pattern of most major labor settlements this year.

Most steel companies were reluctant to talk publicly about what they were going to do on steel prices, now that Bethlehem and U.S. Steel had started the parade.

But a spokesman for Armco Steel said the company expected to announce increases by Friday.

The industry, fighting a surge of profit-sapping imported steel, had warned for months that a 6 per cent labor settlement would force price increases. Otherwise, executives said, two-thirds of the industry's profits would be wiped out and some companies would be put out of business.

The industry refused to break down what 6.5 per cent would mean in over-all costs. But I.W. Abel, president of the union, said it meant considerably more than a billion dollars.

New life insurance available

HARRISBURG (AP) — Low cost group life insurance becomes available to state employees under new legislation signed by Gov. Shafer.

Another bill which the governor signed Monday in Miami provides strengthening changes to the state employees' retirement system. Shafer is in Miami to attend platform hearings which are a prelude to the National Republican Convention there next week.

Under the insurance bill, the Department of Property and Supplies, unless specifically requested not to do so, is authorized to purchase group life insurance for state employees.

Allies smash large enemy base

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy gunboats, helicopter gunships and South Vietnamese marines smashed a large enemy base 92 miles southwest of Saigon in what military spokesmen Wednesday called "an unprecedented allied penetration" in the Mekong Delta.

The battle began Tuesday night and ended Wednesday morning. The allies counted 83 Viet Cong bodies and reported that two South Vietnamese marines were wounded.

Government troops searched the area after the clash and found 423 mortars, 62 weapons and more than 12,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition.

The Vietnamese soldiers cornered the Viet Cong in bunkers where they were raked by helicopter gunships and blasted by the 60-foot Navy gunboats and American armored troop carriers. Spokesmen said the American craft inflicted most of the casualties.

The Navy boats are called monitors because of their heavy armor and firepower.

A battalion of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division moved into position two miles from the battleground but reported no contact with the enemy.

Only light scattered skirmishes were reported elsewhere. In three small fights on the outskirts of Saigon government troops said they killed seven enemy soldiers, captured six and seized 18 weapons and large quantities of ammunition.

A small bomb tied to a trip wire was discovered Tuesday in an alley next to the six-story building-housing offices of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

U.S. B52 bombers flew eight missions Tuesday and Wednesday, dropping 1,200 tons of bombs on enemy positions.

Elwood Fox elected member of Bangor Area School Board

BANGOR — Elwood Fox of Lower Mt. Bethel was named a member of the Bangor Area School Board during a special meeting of that board held Monday evening, with Mrs. Charlotte Hough, president in charge. Fox was elected to fill the unexpired term of Wilmer Miller who resigned. His term will run to December 1973.

Bids for athletic equipment for track and baseball were opened during the meeting. After a study of the bids, awards were made to the successful bidders, L. J. Bruschi of Bangor and Lim's Sports Shop of Stroudsburg on an item by item award.

One other bidder, Nazareth Sporting Goods was declared to be an ineligible bidder for failing to submit a bid bond, as required. The awards exceeded $1,400.00.

New position
The board created a new position for the maintenance department and custodial staff by defining a position as bus driver for a.m. and p.m. bus runs to be the Washington School; for mail runs in the system and for operation of the kindergarten bus for Portland and East Bangor.

The job will pay $4,900 to a new employee or $5,100 to an experienced employee. It was also agreed that a third shift of the custodial staff be established at the senior high school, by hiring a new member of the staff. Two men would work on the middle shift and two men on the night shift at that school. The position will pay $4,500.

It was also agreed by the board that the rate of $1.50 per school bus per day be approved for the bus contractors for the 1968-69 school year. This is based on the fact that the contractors will accept the new rate. If accepted it will cost the district an additional $6,000 per year for transportation.

New oven
Approval was given for the receiving of quotations for a new oven in the Junior High cafeteria and a lengthy discussion was held on cafeteria personnel.

It was announced that the decision on the naming of the new elementary principal to serve for the East Bangor and Portland School and later move to the new elementary school at Five Points, when completed will be made at the regular meeting of the board of Monday August 19.

The bid for material for the erection of a building adjacent to the football practice field at senior high was awarded to the Cramer Lumber Cashway Co. of Portland at $806.00, as the lowest bid. Other bids were received from Bangor Lumber Co. at $910.40 and from Roscoe Stiles at $821.32.

Board to meet

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Area School Board will hold a special meeting Wednesday, Aug. 7, at 8 p.m. in the Junior High Building, Stroudsburg.

Greene Twp. property owners will organize

NEWFOUNDLAND — The first regular meeting, an organizational session, will be held by the Greene Township Property Owners and Taxpayers on August 2 at the Promised Land Fire Hall at 8 p.m.

All Greene Township residents who are interested in the new organization are invited to join in the session, at which Hugh Colan, of Roanokeville, will preside.

Contributions to support the financial obligations of the organization will constitute 1968 dues. The meeting has been called to inform residents on the sub-division ordinance meeting results, and to plan meeting dates and discuss other important developments.

It has been suggested that the organization will meet each month during the Summer, and perhaps every two or three months during the Winter.

Representatives will also attend all township public meetings so that information on activities within township offices may be disseminated to members.

'Kiddie Day' on Saturday

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Recreation Board of East Stroudsburg will sponsor a "Kiddie Day" Saturday from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

There will be free swimming, hot dogs, ice cream and soda for all area children.

A father and son softball game also will be held on the playground baseball diamond.

Preacher to hoodlums Newfoundland speaker

NEWFOUNDLAND — Ten years ago, David Wilkerson went to New York City on a one-man mission: to change the lives of teenage gang members.

This week, the Rev. David Wilkerson, who converted the head of the suicidal Mau-Mau gang in New York City and helped him on the way to becoming an ordained minister working with narcotic addicts, prostitutes, beatniks and goodniks, will speak from the stage of the Newfoundland Arts Center in the fifth of Vacationland Ministries' series, "The World Church in Action."

Five years ago, Mr. Wilkerson was the first to expose the fact that glue-sniffing was a fad among urban junior high schoolers, and he began to warn about its growing threat. Today, he is exposing the hippies' new and close to lethal STP, a drug, equal to a gram of LSD, with permanent after-effects.

Chairman of the program on Sunday will be the Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Frey, executive director of the Greater Bethlehem Area Council of Churches.

A highlight in the evening of drama, music and power will be the appearance of the 80-voice "Sing out Group" from

David Wilkerson

Vestal, N.Y. A trio of folk singers from Waverly will also appear in a program of original folk songs, written especially for the Ministries' series. They include Gwen Freeman, Bob Browning and Joyce Chapin.

All seats are free in the 624-seat theatre, which opens at 6:30 p.m. for the program. The program will be completely utilized. There is plenty of free parking available.

Companionship plan sound

Advancement of age has long been a serious problem among men and women who are approaching the late years of life. It is not a local problem alone, but one of universal nature.

There have been many organizations formed to ease the pains of becoming old. These organizations were founded with the hope that they would assist in allowing people to grow old gracefully, through companionship and enjoyment.

Arch Dally, owner of Rhineland Inn in Swiftwater, came up with the unique idea of providing companionship for our elderly and with the help of Mrs. Dally formed the A. and B. Dally Golden Age Companionship Service.

After only one day of advertising, 36 interested parties called Dally and expressed their attraction to the plan that calls for the elderly to be companions for the elderly — which sounds like a perfect combination from this angle.

We have heard reports of a 73-year-old woman from Cherry Valley being a companion to a 93-year-old lady in the Saylorsburg region. There have also been other favorable reports that indicate the entire program is going over better than anyone had ever expected.

As far as we know the entire project has been carefully planned and is being run to the delight of the elderly people involved. It is hard for us to understand how the elderly could be more happy than in the company of the elderly.

The companion service would actually relieve the General Hospital of Monroe County and nursing homes, institutions that are overcrowded at the present time.

It will also see that companions receive necessary instruction on various facets of care that may be necessary for the very aged people involved in the program.

The entire plan sounds like something the doctor has ordered for the aged.

Dangerous season

We are currently in that dangerous season — a time of the year in which small fires become as pesky as back yard mosquitoes.

These pesky blazes, which come about through awning, car and grass fires, can always develop into something serious, especially if they burn unnoticed for any length of time.

In recent weeks we have been plagued by these nuisance fires, which keep firemen on the run in an effort to prevent greater damage.

However, now that we are experiencing the "dry" part of the summer, when rain is a scarce commodity, we are all obligated to guard against the possibility of fires of all types.

We are obligated to be careful of our own actions around matches, flames or inflammable materials. We are also bound to be observant of other people and the possibility of fires resulting from their acts of carelessness.

Although Monroe County has been enjoying a series of cool days of late, this is the time of heat and dryness, which prove to be a strong duo in furthering the cause of fire damage.

As we happily remind each of you, this is also our summer tourist season, during which time many visitors come to our area and spend a lot of time in our fields and forests.

This adds to the possible dangers of fire, as picnics and cookouts become commonplace during July and August.

Burning of trash and the use of torches, etc., must be done only under proper supervision and with the greatest of care.

We must not risk life and heavy property damage due to fires. We can't always depend on someone else finding the error of our ways to curtail the risk of damage.

Light side

With Gene Brown

Observing a young lady standing alone, the young man stepped up to her and said, "Pardon me, but you look like Helen Black."

"Yes, I know I do," she replied, "but I'd look far worse in white."

When you run into a telephone pole, you will be required to pay for replacing the pole, if broken, including the overtime required to put the electrical system back into order. Over the weekend six poles were snapped in two or three.

Cracked Shot

An FBI marksman passed through a small town and saw evidence of amazing shooting. On trees, walls, fences and barns were numerous bullet holes with the bullet holes in exact center. He asked to meet the remarkable marksman.

The man turned out to be the village idiot. "This is the most wonderful marksmanship I've ever seen," said the FBI man. "How in the world do you do it?"

"Easy as pie. I shoot first and draw the circles afterwards."

Allen - Goldsmith Report

Bucher report persists

WASHINGTON — Military and diplomatic circles in the capital are buzzing with a sensational report about Commander Lloyd Bucher, skipper of the USS Pueblo, seized by North Korea in January of this year.

Extensive inquiries have produced no confirmation of any kind of this disturbing report.

In fact, after persistent querying, an anonymous State Department source finally stated that "official" word has been received categorically denying the Bucher story. No further enlightenment could be gained from this informant. He flatly declined to comment on the identity and nature of the "official" disclaimer.

Despite this denial, the report persists. It is credited to various sources, chief among them France and Japan. Both have diplomatic missions in North Korea; also large Communist parties with extensive ties in Red quarters.

A factor unquestionably playing a role in lending substance to the disquieting report is the administration's repeated statements, both private and public, that it has no knowledge of the whereabouts and treatment of the 82 Pueblo crewmen. Their Communist captors have stated they are receiving "humane treatment." The White House, State Department and Pentagon admit they know nothing as to just what that constitutes.

As a result, there are growing apprehensions over the fate of the imprisoned crewmen. As this column recently reported, "No one goes so far as to say there is a possibility that casualties may have occurred among them. But this dire likelihood is left dangling."

Also pointed out in that column was a highly significant comment by Senator Robert Byrd, W. Va., deputy Democratic floor leader, in a broadcast to his state. Following was his reply to a question about the Pueblo:

"I know of nothing new. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have turned thumbs down on any military moves because in their opinion these would result in the death of the men and the opening of a second front in Asia. Our government is continuing efforts to bring about the release of the men through direct negotiations and diplomatic channels. I imagine the North Koreans will hold the men until such time as they feel they have milked all of the propaganda value out of this affair."

"Do we know anything about the present health of the men?"

"I cannot say that we do."

"Are they all living, do we know that?"

"I cannot say that they are with certainty," replied Byrd obviously choosing his words with care, "and I doubt that anyone knows for sure that they are."

A recent intelligence report indicated the 82 crewmen have been split up into groups and are held in different prison camps. Also that some mail is getting to them through the International Red Cross.

Could it be true?

WASHINGTON — While we have a surplus of government types who specialize in planning, we have no over-all agency which makes plans for everybody. In Colombia, South America, where I recently spent a few days, they do; it's called the National Planning Department.

The chief planner for the whole country is, Edgar Gutierrez and we chatted with him at an ancient fort (recently converted into a private club). Our first question for him, of course, was, "Well, what are your plans?"

"No, no," Sr. Gutierrez said in perfect English, "that's not the way it works. You tell me your plans and I will tell you how the government will cooperate in order to help your business and make you rich."

It's hard not to like a government official who talks like that. The United States could use a few.

"Would you like to start a business in Colombia?" he said. "Fine. Labor is so cheap, it is ridiculous. We have no rules saying you must have a Colombia citizen as partner or anything like that. There is a limit to how much of an existing Colombian corporation you may buy, but you may start a brand-new corporation and own as much of it as you like."

No taxes

We mentioned taxes and he said foreign-owned companies need not pay any taxes for 10 years. (Colombia ought to change its name to "Paradise.")

"Maybe you'd like to build a hotel in Cartagena, right beside the one you're living in now," he said. "Ocean-front land might cost you as much as two dollars per square foot. Building costs are low — there are no heating or insulation problems — it's always warm here. We need hotels; I urge you to build one."

acceptable to Stevenson.

Report circulating

A report has circulated that Vice President Hubert Humphrey, if nominated for president, would also let the convention choose a running mate. But Humphrey himself has told anyone who inquired that, while he favors an "open convention," he will have a few suggestions to make about his running mate.

Richard M. Nixon has already leaked a list of a dozen or so prominent Republicans who would be acceptable to him. There are some who believe Nixon will let his choice be known in advance of the Miami Beach convention which would be almost without precedent.

Ted Kennedy has decided not to run for vice president.

Who are Humphrey's favorites now? The two names heard with increasing frequency are Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and Sargent Shriver, the Kennedy brother-in-law, Peace Corps and Poverty Chief and now Ambassador to Paris.

And the pundits say the man to watch is Muskie although the tall, articulate Maine

Letters to THE EDITOR

Views ruling as 'unfortunate'

Editor, The Record

The recent ruling by Pope Paul VI prohibiting the use of contraceptives was, in my opinion, a most unfortunate event.

Indeed, in view of the increasing social and economic problems of expanding population and the overall threat posed to the world by the continuance of present birth-rates, the Pope's message seems to be callously inhumane.

How can the church, supposedly the vehicle of Christ's love for mankind, ignore the grave difficulties which soaring birth-rates create for such areas as Latin America and India?

Not only does overpopulation cause severe hardship for the individuals concerned, the unrest which accompanies such conditions is often the germ of violence and revolution. It seems incredible that Pope Paul, a passionate pleader for world peace, can ignore the social implications of unchecked population increase.

The Pope's message runs contrary to much recent opinion on the matter. A recent survey of American Catholic wives indicated that 78 per cent of these women practiced some method of contraception, with two-thirds utilizing methods other than rhythm. The 56 member commission which Pope Paul appointed to study the problem of contraceptives reported a majority opinion in favor of a general acceptance of "decent and human means of contraception."

Even prominent Catholic theological representatives such as the Jesuit weekly American, magazine, a majority of the delegates to the Third World Laymen's Congress in Rome and widespread followers of Bishop William Bekkers of the Netherlands advocate a more liberal stand on birth control. Protestant theologians are almost unanimous in their advocacy of the principle of totality and the fundamental responsibility of the individual for moral decision.

In view of these and many other interpretations, many from serious theologians, the Pope's adherence to tradition seems disturbingly anachronistic.

As a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, a center of learning deeply committed to addressing the church to contemporary needs, I have witnessed much constructive work by church leaders in an effort to modernize Catholicism.

Indeed, such improvements as the recent vernacularization of the liturgy, the liberalization of rulings on fast and abstinences and the inclusion of laymen into a more active participation in Church decisions all seem to indicate that the ivory towers of Catholicism are at last coming down to the people.

It is a tragic misfortune, therefore, that Pope Paul's recent decision has reversed this modernization trend within the church. Indeed, the Pope's ruling not only runs counter to the needs of suffering overpopulated humanity and to the sagacious opinions of many learned theologians, but it also deals a tragic blow to the efforts at modernizing the Catholic Church which were so heroically and dramatically instituted by Pope John XXIII.

Praise for firemen, police

Editor, The Record:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly commend police officers and auxiliary fire police of East Stroudsburg for the excellent manner in which they handled traffic problems on and around Washington St. in the borough during a fire on the night of July 20.

In these days of criticism of our police and other public servants, we in East Stroudsburg have every reason to be proud of those who serve us around the clock with little public thanks and low remuneration.

On the night in question, heavy traffic on the borough's principal thoroughfare was re-routed in a smooth and efficient manner, providing access and egress to local businesses located on both ends of Washington St.

Speaking for myself and others in this area, I would like to inform these officers that their efforts did not go unnoticed.

Opposition to Rockefeller

Editor, The Record:

As a native of Barrett Township and frequent visitor, I keep up with home-town news through the Record.

Today's issue (July 27) contains a letter to the editor concerning Nelson Rockefeller's candidacy. The inference is that you had editorialized in support of this remarkable (?) man.

I have been a New York State resident (Syracuse area) for the past 17 years and can counter-editorialize as to Rockefeller's qualifications.

The Rockefeller dollars are feeding beautiful propaganda nationwide, and if this is a voter's only exposure to his operations as governor, I must admit it sounds good. You know he just "squeaked" through the last election after having practically swept in in his first term.

I will claim objectivity in my thinking because I admit to having been charmed by him in his first campaign. I now consider myself doing penance for that misguided vote.

In his favor he is great at settling garbage strikes. As president, he could come into any city in the nation, hold a closed-door caucus with the local labor bosses and within hours the honey-wagons would be rolling.

His New York State operating expense budget is now $4 billion dollars, up from 1.8 billion dollars six years ago.

Last year, he established a medicare program, designed to give absolutely free medical, dental, hospital, eyeglasses, Aspirin tablets, etc., to all earning less than $5,500 taxable income. During the first six months of this program it was obvious to everyone (except him) that there wouldn't be a solvent taxpayer left in the state.

Over his protests, the state legislature put the brakes on this ridiculous thing because Washington withheld support funds. In brief, Nelson Rockefeller is too rich for the blood of even the Great White Father in Washington.

He doesn't carry the label "taxafeller" for nothing. For example, auto registration "fees" range around $30 per year (he promised not to raise taxes last year, so he raised "fees" instead about $10 per year. We have state income taxes, sales tax, tax-tax.

Because of Bureaucratic overloads, the highest per pupil education cost in the United States (with mediocre results), and the biggest and best welfare programs anywhere.

He has the largest complex of authorities, commissions, bureaus, etc., and the number of state employees has long since reached alarming proportions (this year's budget increased the number by 8,000). His philosophy seems to be to get every citizen in New York either on the state payroll, or on welfare — and given a few more years I believe he would succeed.

George Sopko's letter outlined his (Rockefeller's) politically subversive acts toward his party unity (is he a Republican or a Super-Liberal?) and I trust that my letter will help fill some of the void left in the Rockefeller press releases concerning small details like taxes.

Please let some undecided Pennsylvania delegates know that there is more to Nelson Rockefeller than appears from afar.

These are your questions

What is the meaning of eclampsia that happens during pregnancy?

Eclampsia is a rare complication of pregnancy. The exact cause is not truly known. It usually occurs during the late period of pregnancy and is readily recognized by the doctor who is taking care of the patient.

One of the special reasons why every pregnant person should be followed from early pregnancy to the birth of a child is that any complications can thus be recognized very early.

To give any of the symptoms of eclampsia would irresponsibly throw millions of people into a panic because "similar symptoms" can be fear producing and even terrifying. Eclampsia happens so rarely that it is distinctly illogical for pregnant women to give a second thought to the possibility that it may occur. The chances are slight and certainly the danger is markedly lessened when under the constant supervision of the physician.

those who probably would favor the Muskie alliance most is President Johnson, whose voice and counsel will be sought by Humphrey in all major decisions.

Humphrey is known to share the president's admiration for the Maine Senator's handling of the model cities legislation on the Senate floor. Indeed, Muskie is given credit at the White House for putting it through. The vice president now talks of a "Marshall Plan for the Cities" which fits closely with the ideas advanced by Muskie to deal with urban problems.

Muskie recognizes the cardinal rule — and practical fact — that a man doesn't seek the vice presidency, nor should he seem to want it too much. Muskie, if anything, has gone overboard in the other direction.

While the Maine man may be the "Washington favorite," he also is relatively unknown nationally. Vice presidential choices often have no great following throughout the country. But it is important to note that Muskie is well known to Party leaders as chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

League of Women Voters concentrate on fellowship

STROUDSBURG — With the animals at the Wild Animal Farm providing the sound effects, the aims and future projects of the League of Women Voters were outlined concisely by Mrs. Charles Boster, vice president, at the membership picnic this week.

Of particular local interest are the league plans for a study of housing conditions in this area and for possible merger of the Stroudsburg area municipalities.

The housing study will tie in with the national human resources study which has been added to the League's national studies on China, the electoral college, water resources and one man, one vote concept of government.

Local chairmen of the various projects were introduced. For the benefit of the guests, Mrs. Boster also sketched the general objectives of the non-partisan organization to encourage active citizen participation in government.

Mrs. Claude Leister, host to the group for the picnic, was introduced as chairman of the League committee which successfully worked for revision of the State Constitution.

Emphasis at the picnic was on fellowship. Judge and Mrs. Arlington W. Williams and Commissioner and Mrs. Elwood Hintze were among the guests.

The entertainment, introduced by Mrs. Robert Howell, was presented by two young artists from the Court Players at the Newfoundland Arts Center; Marti Winiak of New York City who studied drama at Marywood College in Scranton and Joe Gori of Scranton who studied drama at Bob Jones University in South Carolina.

They presented a cutting from the original melodrama "East Lynne" which has been playing at the Newfoundland Arts Center since July 17 to good reviews.

The executive board meeting of the League of Women Voters was announced for Thursday, Aug. 8 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. David Harriton.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

What a bunch of goof-offs! I never realized that among the bad habits which animals have contracted from humans is that of clock-watching.

Anyone who has taken to the children to the Wild Animal Farm this summer knows that it looks like a political campaign the animals in political claque, flocking to first one candidate and then another and elbowing each other aside for the free hand-outs and nuzzling in for attention.

When the six o'clock whistle blows—they're finished with all that, and relax completely, taking off their shoes and lounging around chewing their cud and talking over their impressions of the humans.

When the League of Women Voters invaded their privacy before the picnic after hours, they couldn't have cared less. The camel, stretched at full length, opened one eye, sighed and went back to sleep.

The llamas looked haughty and the deer were so uninterested that they made people walk around them. They'd put in their eight hours and the public be hanged. Unless, like Tass Juistedt, they were willing to pay overtime.

White bass usually attain sizes of five inches the first year and up to 15 inches at the end of the fourth year.

by pulling up fresh grass for the aodass.

The only thing about the picnic or the picnickers or the program that interested the animals was the skit from "East Lynne" presented by the young people from the Court Theatre. The animals, especially the Andalusian donkey joined right in with Joe Gori's song.

Well, if the animals weren't interested in the humans, I was. The League has a lot of new, young, and vital members: some interesting old members I hadn't met before; and the husbands of members I had.

Now I want to go back and see, whatever has happened to Mary Leister's house which she and her architect son-in-law have completely transformed. But this time I'll know that the eager-beaver act the animals put on during working hours is all for show. They really aren't crazy about me at all.

The bidding:

1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♥ Pass 4♥

Opening lead — queen of spades.

The safety finesse is a play forced upon declarer by the special circumstances with which he is faced. In order to insure his contract, declarer takes a finesse he would ordinarily not take.

West leads the queen of spades and East signals with the eight. South ducks because he is anxious to prevent East's king from becoming an entry card. By refusing the trick South breaks a vital line of communication between the defenders which they would otherwise have.

West leads another spade which declarer wins with the ace. It is obvious that trumps must now be tackled, so South plays a low heart to the ace and a low heart back. East follows with the ten and South must decide whether to play the king or the jack.

Ordinarily, missing four to the queen, South would play for the drop. Mathematically, cashing the A-K is more likely to be successful in the long run than the finesse.

But this generality must not be followed blindly. In this case, for example, the finesse is mandatory. The problem is not so much to guess where the queen is located as it is to make sure of the contract.

The finesse guarantees the contract. Assume the worst happens and the finesse loses to the queen. There is then no East-West combination of cards possible to defeat the contract. With West on lead the king of clubs is in no danger and South is sure of at least ten tricks.

If declarer follows the general rule of playing for the drop in the present hand, he goes down. As soon as East gets in with the queen of trumps, he shifts to a club and South is defeated.

The safety finesse pays exceptionally good dividends in the actual deal when South winds up making twelve tricks instead of nine.

Artist sought for future Christmas seals

SCRANTON — The Tuberculosis and Health Society of Northeast Pennsylvania has issued "A Call to Artists" to participate in the designing of the 1970 Christmas Seal. The artist whose work is chosen will receive a $1,000 award and nationwide recognition. The deadline for entries is October 1. A brochure explaining the details of the contest can be had by writing the society at 401 North Washington Avenue, Scranton. Many eminent artists have contributed to the progress of the Christmas Seal Campaign by designing seals which conveyed the spirit of this nation.

wide endeavor to wipe out a tragic disease, the society says. The list includes: Howard Pyle, Ben Nash, Thomas M. Cleland, Rudolph Ruzicka, Ernest Hamlin Baker, Steven Dohanos, Dale Nichols, Andre Dugo and Elmer Jacobs. The Christmas Seal was first applied in the fight against tuberculosis in this country in 1907. It was designed by Emily P. Bissell, a Red Cross Worker. The purpose of the first Christmas Seal Campaign was to raise funds to help a small tuberculosis sanatorium from closing its doors. The campaign was a success, three thousand dollars was contributed.

Starting in 1920, and continuing each year since, the design of the Christmas Seal has carried only the double-barred cross. Together, the seal and the double-barred cross have been the banner around which people could unite in their voluntary battle against tuberculosis.

charge, but Roos told the officials there are certain programs available through which the building might be donated to the borough and that these are limited to programs in public health and education.

Possible action

Under favorable terms an agreement could be reached as Roos said there is a possibility the borough could acquire the property at one half its fair market value but this would have to include a public park or other form of recreational use to be incorporated with the use of the building.

Only East Stroudsburg council has indicated an interest in the building and Roos said that a questionnaire will have to be sent to other interested federal, state and borough agencies in East Stroudsburg.

The building is located on Crystal and Anomink streets, in the area of the proposed central business district urban renewal area.

The existing municipal building will be retained for use by the fire department and other offices.

The borough has also signed an agreement with East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church to purchase the church's Christian Education Building on Anomink St. for $75,000 with a $500 deposit already placed by the borough.

Depicted on this map is a Middle Reservoir which New Jersey utilities plan to utilize rather than Sunfish Pond for a pumped storage hydro-electric facility. Sunfish Pond is designated as LaBar Island Upper Reservoir on the map. The power conduit leading from Sunfish Pond would be eliminated under the new plan. The Middle Reservoir, designated as Tocks island Upper Reservoir, would be the only one used for the pumped storage facility. The distance between the Middle Reservoir and Sunfish Pond would only be 1,000 feet. This map was presented to the Delaware River Basin Commission by the utilities in 1963.

DRBC backs mid-reservoir as pumped storage facility

PHILADELPHIA — Use of a middle reservoir for a pumped storage hydro-electric facility rather than Sunfish Pond was endorsed by the professional staff of the Delaware River Basin Commission Wednesday.

James Wright, executive director of the DRBC, officially notified the Federal Power Commission of both his and the staff's endorsement of the plan.

Wright, however, attached five conditions which New Jersey utility firms must meet in order to make the DRBC endorsement binding.

Public interest

Wright, speaking before the DRBC meeting in Philadelphia Wednesday, said that he and the staff, after extensive review, "concluded that enlargement of existing Kittatinny Mountain pumped storage project would be substantially in the public interest and therefore desirable."

The Basin Commission, as an official body, did not adopt the endorsement made by Wright and his staff.

The DRBC deferred action on Wright's recommendation by unanimous vote with the explanation that the other members of the commission are not as familiar with the facility and its ramifications as are the New Jersey commission members.

New Jersey utility companies, in an effort to appease irate conservationists, have revised their plans for pumped storage hydroelectric facilities which previously required the use of Sunfish Pond. Conservationists have objected to the use of Sunfish Pond since it is a natural glacial lake.

The utilities, therefore, adopted a revision of a previous plan which calls for the use of a middle reservoir between Sunfish Pond and the Yards Creek Upper Reservoir. The only revision of this 1963 plan is to leave about 1,000 feet between the middle reservoir and Sunfish Pond in addition to increasing the size of the middle reservoir.

Both the DRBC and the Federal Power Commission must approve the plan proposed by the New Jersey utilities before congress can take any action on the matter.

The five conditions by which Wright and his staff would endorse the plan are:

One — That there exist a flat prohibition against the use of Sunfish Pond.

Two — That all (water) tunnels and transmission lines be installed underground.

Three — That there be a minimal disruption of natural environment during construction.

Four — The utilities would have to pay the costs of fishery studies related to the power installation and any other studies that might be necessary and that they install and maintain at their expense "such special services and facilities as may be required to offset any harmful effects on the fishery."

Five — Pumping and generating operations would have to be conducted in accordance with water relief schedules and other river management procedures.

Wright, in recommending that the Commission endorse the utility companies' proposal, cited as public benefits the availability of low cost electrical power to pump Delaware River water to northeast New Jersey and areas in Pennsylvania. He also cited the collection and treatment of sewage and industrial wastes on a regional scale could be made less costly to both industry and the basin generally as the result of low cost power available through the project.

Wright said that after a hearing last August, at which time there was heavy opposition to the use of Sunfish Pond, that the DRBC advised the utilities that an alternative method should be found by them which would eliminate the use of Sunfish Pond.

Alternatives outlined

Two alternatives were outlined Wednesday by Wright. Both of them involve the middle reservoir at a larger size than originally proposed. The first alternative calls for a raised dike at a 17 foot level. The second would keep the dike at the same elevation, but have the reservoir cover a larger area.

In either case, Wright explained, the additional storage in the middle reservoir would make up for the loss of the use of Sunfish Pond.

Wright also reviewed the ways the dike would be landscaped and said that the whole construction job would have to be made in harmony with the natural surroundings.

United States Commissioner Vernon D. Northrop, chairman of the DRBC, said that Wright's recommendations appear to strike a "desirable balance" between the aesthetic and economic values.

Northrop said the Commission hopes to return to act on this matter as fast as possible.

Joyce plans to seek reelection

STROUDSBURG — Thomas R. Joyce, Monroe County treasurer, announced plans to seek re-election next year. Until voters approved a constitutional amendment, treasurers could not succeed themselves.

Joyce will be among the first incumbents holding this office to try to succeed him.

In June, Joyce became the first Monroe County treasurer to be elected president of the Pennsylvania State Association of Treasurers.

Provide guidance

Joyce said the honor was "extra special" to him because he is one of only 14 Democrats who hold the row office in the 67 counties in the commonwealth.

Last year Joyce served as first vice-president. Election to the top spot is not automatic.

The state organization's function is to provide guidance for legislation important to the treasurers, Joyce said.

DRBC adopts regional waste treatment policy for compact

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

PHILADELPHIA — The Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) Wednesday adopted a regional waste treatment policy which gives the four state compact the power to construct regional sewerage treatment facilities in the Tocks Island Region.

The DRBC is currently in the final phase of a three year study, which upon completion, will make definite recommendations on the treatment of sewerage in the seven county Tocks Island area.

The policy officially adopted Wednesday, gives the compact the legal authority to carry out the recommendations of the study itself rather than have local municipalities follow through.

Force of law

James F. Wright, executive director of the DRBC, said that "incorporation of this policy into the comprehensive plan would give it the force of law and appreciably enlarge upon both the basin wide pollution control standards enacted by this commission in March 1967, and the water quality rules and regulations adopted in March 1968."

Wright specifically mentioned the seven-county Tocks Island Region as benefiting from this policy.

Wright stated that the Tocks Island Regional Environmental Study, which will be completed in April, 1969, "will soon produce recommendations for a sewerage disposal network that would be highly appropriate for action under this policy."

The study, abbreviated as TIRSES, has four alternative measures for the treatment of sewerage in the Tocks Island Region. The DRBC, at the conclusion of its study, is expected to recommend the execution of one of them.

The four alternatives basically range from the construction of 116 small treatment plants to one major facility in the Tocks Region.

The DRBC previously indicated it has more-or-less ruled out the 116 plants due to the apparent infeasibility of both operation and maintenance.

Second alternative

The second alternative calls for the construction of 45 sub-regional plants through the region; the third for the construction of six plants at Millford, Matamoras, Flatbrook, Brodheads Creek, the mouth of Brodheads Creek and Paulinskil.

The fourth alternative is for one large treatment facility to treat the effluence from the entire region. An area south of the Tocks Island Dam is proposed for the facility.

With its newly adopted policy, Wright said that "it is not unlikely that the most effective approach to the solution of waste disposal problems in this region will be a Commission - constructed and operated system within the scope of this policy."

The policy, principally, empowers the DRBC to require waste collection and treatment on a regional scale and authorize the Commission to engage in the financing, building and operation of the regional plants.

Gov. Shafer told the Commission at its annual meeting last year that he hoped the DRBC would use its bonding authority to assist in the financing of the regional waste facilities.

Wright urged local officials throughout the area "to consider the advantages" of an agreement to have the DRBC construct and operate the facilities.

Endorsed earlier

The Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council endorsed the policy during a public hearing June 28 while Monroe County Commissioner Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis expressed fears of the high cost.

The DRBC at its meeting Wednesday also approved the addition to the water treatment plant in Stroudsburg. The Stroudsburg Municipal Authority Monday night approved to float a $750,000 bond issue to finance the additions.

The Commission also announced that it has contracted with Edward J. Toole of Albany, N.Y., as architect for the agency's headquarters to be built near Trenton.

The contract states that maximum cost of the building, scheduled for completion in 1970, is not to exceed $650,000. The structure will provide 25,000 square feet of space for the commission's executive, administrative, technical, planning and laboratory operations.

Servicemen to receive licenses

STROUDSBURG — Any active serviceman who is a resident of Pennsylvania will be entitled to a free hunting license this year by applying for the license at any county treasurer office in the state, according to Thomas R. Joyce, Monroe County treasurer and president of the Pennsylvania County Treasurers' Assn.

Joyce announced Wednesday that the 1968 antlerless deer season will be for two days only, December 16-17, but he said that there was a possibility of another day being tacked on to the two-day season.

According to Joyce, the buck season schedule will run 12 days, from December 2-14; bear season, Nov. 25-30; small game, Oct. 26-Nov. 30.

Accepting applications

The first day of accepting antlerless deer applications will be Sept. 16, by mail only. Cost of license will be $1.00 plus postage.

Hunting licenses will be available Sept. 3 at the county treasurer's office.

Representatives of the County Treasurers' Assn., Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, and the Pennsylvania Game Commission held a joint meeting Tuesday in Harrisburg.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss mutual problems in the issuance of hunting licenses, particularly antlerless deer licenses.

Members discussed the possibility of providing a special quota of antlerless deer licenses to take care of deserving nonresidents who are deprived of this privilege by the 30-day waiting period provided in the game law.

The following topics were discussed and unanimously approved:

—Procedure for applying 1968 antlerless deer licenses.

—Antlerless deer license information for military personnel.

—all 1968-1969 hunting licenses, applications and report forms will be shipped to county treasurers on August 15.

Rooney backs post office exemption

WASHINGTON — Responding to an appeal of 38 postmasters in the 15th Congressional District, Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., Wednesday said he is supporting an exemption from federal manpower ceilings for the Post Office Department.

The House Wednesday approved a measure immediately exempting postal field workers from the provisions of the tax hike-budget cut bill restricting government employment levels.

Rooney was responding to a letter from Stroudsburg Postmaster Fred H. Rhodes who had reported on a meeting of 38 postmasters from Lehigh, Monroe and Northampton counties held to discuss threatened service curtailment.

Rooney told Rhodes and the others that he would support the exemption of postal employees.

19-year-old girl carries county convention banner

By BOBBY WESTBROOK
Family Fare Editor

POCONO MANOR — Monroe County's most prominent role in the national Republican Convention won't be played by politicians but by a 19-year-old girl.

Carol Scott, daughter of former State Senator and Mrs. William Z. Scott of Pocono Manor, has been appointed to represent Pennsylvania as hostess at the Leading Ladies Brunch at the convention in Miami.

With representatives of other states she will be hostess to the wives of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination.

Another ceremony

Carol has also been invited to be a flag-bearer in the ceremonies at one of the opening sessions.

As a former Girl Scout, Carol has been a flag-bearer in many ceremonies but in none as exciting as this.

In the invitation extended by Mary Brooks, assistant national chairman, Carol was instructed only to bring a white sleeveless shift dress and white gloves with the rest of her paraphernalia, including a hostess pinafore, to be provided.

She will report for briefing on Sunday afternoon and be quartered with the other hostesses at the Fontainebleau.

This is not Carol's first national convention. With her family, she attended the 1956 convention in San Francisco. They made a family vacation out of the trip, then, visiting scenic highlights and Disneyland.

Her brother, Bill, now 16 and a Junior at Pocono Mountain High School, admits that he remembers more about Disneyland than about the convention.

This time, the situation is reversed; Carol is taking the family to the convention. They had not intended to go but changed their minds after the invitation came this week.

They will drive down and the rest of the family will stay at the M.S. Baldwin home in Pompano Beach, while Carol takes her official place at the convention.

Blonde and blue-eyed, Carol is a junior at Susquehanna University, and has been close to politics all her life. She is a bit of a politician herself. Asked whether she was rooting for any particular candidate to win the nomination, she said:

"I have my favorite, but since I'll be serving all the candidates' wives, I don't think it would be diplomatic to name him now."

Date set for opening of ESSC classroom bid

EAST STROUDSBURG — Robert L. Kunzig, executive director of the General State Authority, announced Wednesday that bids for construction of a new classroom building at East Stroudsburg State College will be opened at the General State Authority Headquarters, 18th and Herr Sts., Harrisburg, at 1 p.m., August 26, 1968.

Kunzig said the new classroom building at East Stroudsburg will be located in the center of the old campus and will replace Stroud Hall, an obsolete women's dormitory. It will be constructed adjacent to Old Onke Hall, the college library and dining hall.

The building will be four stories in height with an additional wing.

Designed by Harry E. Purnell and Rinker, Kiefer and Rake, Architects-Engineers of 304 Park Ave., Stroudsburg, the project has a construction allocation of $1,250,000 and is scheduled for completion by May 28, 1970.

JIM MURRAY

Home run hitter

You all know what home-run hitters look like — all those muscles, and they stop when they go up the dugout steps so they won't hit their heads on the roof. They might have a pot belly like Babe Ruth or legs that should have branches on them like Lou Gehrig. Some of them might look like the Washington Monument, others have biceps they might use to pull railroad cars or lift railroad wheels. Their home runs go through windows in City Halls, they don't ricochet around the outfield. They don't beat out home runs; most of them are lucky they can beat out outfield hits.

You all know what home-run hitters look like — and so do the Houston Astros. Which is why they clasped their hands to their foreheads and groaned the first time they saw James Sherman Wynn swing at a curve ball. "Wynn!" they shrieked. "Once is enough for a little guy like you to go around on a strike! Babe Ruth would take a cut like that at a balloon! What's trying to do — knock the ball out of Texas? Just get it past the shortstop is all we ask."

You see, they knew Jim Wynn wasn't a home-run hitter because his arms were considerably smaller around than Popeye's. He didn't have to get his sports jackets from the same store as an NFL lineman, and the Astros didn't have to fight the National Basketball Assn. for him. In fact, he looked a perfect size to get a lot of unintentional bases-on-balls. Everybody knew you put a RFA home-run hitter on base on purpose only. They were too big to throw anything but a strike to, anyway.

So the Houston Astros knew a banjo-hitting shortstop when they saw one. At 5 feet, 9 inches, 160-pounds, Jim Wynn looked more like a threat to Maury Wills than Babe Ruth.

He was so small and could run so fast that the only time you could see him clearly was when he was standing still and the grass was cut.

They told Jim to get himself a light bat and learn to hit to right, to hunt, to work the pitcher for a walk — like Wills, to get his "home runs" one base at a time.

That was 100 homers ago. Jim Wynn is only 26 years old and that total puts him only 614 behind Babe Ruth but 87 ahead of Maury Wills, who's 30 years older.

They have now given up telling him when to cut down his swing. Last year, there were only 63 home runs hit in Houston, second lowest in the big leagues (Kansas City, which bottomed out with 57 is now an abandoned park) and Jim hit 15 of them. He hit 37 altogether. Only one player in the league (Henry Aaron, 39) hit more.

"Jim Wynn," notes a Houston Astro coach ruefully, "let all the advice go in one ear — and out the same one. Thank God."

Wynn, the Pocket Babe Ruth, the Sawed-Off Shotgun of the big leagues, stood around the batting cage the other night and explained his Wynn method.

"I got only one swing and it's highly impossible for me to cut down on it. I might as well cut the bat in half as cut my swing in half. I wouldn't hit the ball twice as often and half as far, but only half as often. I wouldn't hit 37 fair balls, never mind home runs."

Wynn has wisely not emulated Babe Ruth in any other way, however. In 1965, he stole 43 bases and only the other night he "stole" his 100th home run. The ball rattled around the center field fences just long enough for Jimmy to get into first gear while going around second. He got the checkered flag at home without even sliding.

Bridge anyone?

Oswald Jacoby (2nd from right) of Dallas, Tex., makes a funny remark during the bidding at the Life Masters Pairs competition of the American Bridge Contract League's 40th Summer National Tournament in Minneapolis Wednesday. Playing against Jacoby is Tobias Stone (right) of New York City.

Banks powers Cubs to win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ernie Banks hit the 459th and 460th home runs of his career Wednesday and Billy Williams and Jim Hickman also homered as the Chicago Cubs defeated the Houston Astros 6-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Ferguson Jenkins.

The Cubs, who belted five homers against San Francisco on Tuesday, kayaked Denny Lemaster to the fourth inning barrage that included a two-run homer by Williams and solo blasts by Banks and Hickman.

Banks connected for his 18th homer of the season in the sixth inning off reliever Jim Ray, and the Cubs added one more run in the eighth on a run-scoring single by Hickman.

Jenkins, who posted his 12th victory of the season against 10 losses, gave up a run in the first inning on a double by Bob Watson, a passed ball and an infield error then settled down and held the Astros to only two hits the rest of the way.

The big right-hander, who leads the National League in strikeouts, fanned seven to lift his season total to 182.

Collegians 'psyched' for Green Bay clash

CHICAGO (UPI) — Norm Van Brocklin, in his first season coaching the College All Stars, can't guess how his team will react for Friday night's test against the pro football champion Green Bay Packers.

"Physically," he said, "I think we have everything we need. That leaves it up to attitude, and all I can say is that we've had a good attitude so far."

Van Brocklin said he planned no Knute Rockne type pre-game pep talk in an effort to key his 50-some warriors for an all out effort against the Packers.

"They've got to get themselves up for the game," he said. "We coaches will do everything we can to get them ready and they'll have to build their own morale for their performance."

Van Brocklin's theory of preparing the team for the annual contest against the pro's has been minimize contact and stress mental conditioning.

Thus the Stars have had no contact work this week and have been busy with morning meetings and light physical workouts in the afternoons.

They're working too with the assurance that everybody will get into the game.

"I'm not going to name a starting lineup," Van Brocklin said. "All I'm going to do is pick 11 boys to run out on the field under the lights and that's only for TV."

"Everybody on the squad is going to get into the game."

Discrimination crumbles in pro football training camps

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — When Willie Davis and Jerry Kramer asked to be roommates this year with the Green Bay Packers one of the last frontiers of racial discrimination began to vanish from the National Football League champions. Davis is black. Kramer is white.

And, in the past, most room assignments with the Packers found blacks living with blacks and whites rooming with whites.

But this year, things are different. The rookies who reported to camp found themselves put in rooms on a strictly alphabetical basis.

That left Leon Crenshaw, a black, and John Robinson, another Negro, rooming with whites. Fred Carr, the team's first draft choice from Texas-El Paso, will also have a white roommate when he reports from the College All-Star camp.

Dave Robinson, the Packers' player representative and a Negro himself, said that as far as he knew the decision to assign rooms alphabetically "was entirely management's decision."

"My understanding is that it was simply something that they decided should be done and so they did it," Robinson said. "I personally feel it was just one of those things that had been done a certain way, and so it continued to be done that way."

Robinson made his comments in an interview with Terry Bledsoe, pro football writer for The Milwaukee Journal.

Robinson, since 1965, has roomed with another Negro, Lionel Aldridge. He said he would continue to do so. The change began with rookies this year and will continue that way because of a desire — on everyone's part—not to split up roommates who have been together for several seasons.

"That way, over a period of time, it will be taken care of," Robinson said.

Robinson described the previous segregation as to color as "a small thing."

"We don't have the problems some teams do because small problems stay small unless you, say, have a disastrous collapse in the season. Then things get played out of proportion."

Robinson said the player's association is now surveying its members on problems of discrimination in the league.

"We're trying to gather information from a lot of people," he said. "It should have been completed by now, but it got pushed aside a little in all the negotiations and the strike and lockout and everything."

"I suppose it will be midseason before we get all the details worked out."

The Packers, in a recent series of articles on discrimination in sports, were pointed out as one of the few places in professional sports where discrimination hadn't been a problem — mainly because of the presence of Vince Lombardi, former coach and now general manager of the team.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

NEW YORK Nasser Aftab went to Los Vegas to handle an expensive gambling joint carpeting and says he dropped $108,000 there in three days. Jennifer Jones solved her own problems nicely and will return to films. Time toddlers on: erstwhile film sexpot Silvano Mangano plays Terence Stamp's mother in his next movie.

Lead singer of The Temptations, David Ruffin, cut out for a solo career. Marian McPartland sent us a Venetian Manhattan postcard from annual Peter DeRose Memorial Concert (tribute to the late fine ASCAP composer) will be held Sun. (Aug. 4) in Asbury, Park, N.J. Where his widow, early radio star May Singhi Breen, resides.

Noel Coward's first and still unpublished song, "Forbidden Fruit," will be in Julie Andrews' "Star" film, the Gertie Lawrence biographical... Robert Alda broke an arm doing "Any Wednesday" in Beverly, Mass., with Dyan Cannon, Gary Grant's severest critic.

"The Who," British rock group who close their act by setting fire to their instruments, an interesting internal criticism, did an anti-smoking commercial for the American Cancer Society. Pearl Bailey's "I'm Gonna Keep On Doin'" on her new Project Three album "The Real Pearl" was written by Pearl May personally; hummed it to hubby Louis Bellson.

"Delilah's Den," 55 W. 55th St., has only male barbers; and is looking for a male manicurist. Flip Wilson's first Aug. 10 Central Park show is sold out. Pat McCormick, six-six comic-writer, apparently didn't seek job insurance when he met Don Rickles, whose TV series he'll write: "I didn't know you were that small," he said, leaning down to pat Rickles on the pate. "I'm going to have you bronzed and hang you from my rear-view mirror."

Look mag raves about The Beatles color cartoon movie fantasy "The Yellow Submarine." You never know where the next TV singer will come from: Merv Griffin's Aug.

13 contribution will be Brother Juniper, a Capuchin monk. Society columnist-fund hereabout gets a summer rerun when one on an upcoming Griffincast knocks the other with "I'm a younger generation" ... Godfrey Cambridge's crack: "I'm divorced. That's a new experience for Negroes."

Charles Aznavour and his Swedish bride were wed in three ceremonies and are having their first tiff—Ulla went home to mother. Nath's famed Coney Island frankfurterie took over the food concession at the Brooklyn Museum and will have an outdoor cafe in the sculpture garden (designed by Morris Lapidus who created all those Miami Beach whatzises). The Stage Dolly partners called off their feud permanently and all us noshers now can burp easily again.

The attractions of Venice haven't changed in several lifetimes and the gondolas bob about the Grand Canal and lagoon in old world splendor, their gondoliers more than somewhat resentful of the luxurious private motor launches and water taxis which make too much noise and too many waves.

We drove from Venice to Florence down the amazing Autostrada; last time we drove between these cities we encountered endless sharp curves, sickeningly abrupt hills and mountains twists and turns — now all gone as the Autostrada curves comfortably around hills and straight through tunneled mountains.

Only 1 Pennsylvanian has become President

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Only one Pennsylvanian, James Buchanan, ever made it to the White House as president. And only one native Keystone Stater was elected vice president, George Dallas of Philadelphia, who served under James K. Polk from 1845-49 while Buchanan was secretary of state. Both were Democrats. No Republican from Pennsylvania ever really got close to the nation's two top posts, although in this century the most serious bid for the party's nomination was made in 1964 by former Gov. William W. Scranton. It's unlikely that a Pennsylvanian will make it when the two major parties nominate this month, unless lightning strikes Gov. Raymond Shafer. The GOP, of course, does claim a Pennsylvanian, by residence. Dwight D. Eisenhower, (1953-1961) lives in historic Gettysburg, but he was born in Texas. Incidentally, of the 36 presidents, Virginia claims seven, Ohio six, New York five. The fame of Buchanan, born in a log cabin near Mercersburg but who made his fortune in Lancaster, is fleeting—but significant. Dallas winds up with a line, nothing more, in most encyclopedias. Slavery was the nation's chief issue when Buchanan, a 6-foot-1 bachelor lawyer, hung on for 17 ballots to win the Democratic nomination—a spot he had cherished unsuccessfully in 1844 and 1852. He was never able to cool the slavery fight, though, and just before his one term ended—he hadn't sought re-election—six southern states seceded to form the Confederacy. Buchanan—who had served in the U.S. House and Senate and in many diplomatic posts, including assignments in Russia and England—refused to use the Army to preserve the Union, leaving the decision for Civil War to his successor, Abraham Lincoln.

Yesterday's flops, tomorrow's TV heroes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actors, like producers, writers and directors in network television, worry about critical notices and even more—about ratings.

But while a short-lived series may be an embarrassing footnote to a career, there is considerable evidence that even an unmitigated disaster can help rather than hurt the victims trapped in the wreckage.

A magnificent example of this is the impending debut of a young actor named Wayne Maunders in a new CBS series, "Lancer." A year ago, Maunders, a complete unknown, was about to emerge as a star, playing the title role in ABC's "Legend of Custer."

The Custer show, as it turned out, was the earliest and most spectacular derailment of the season. It outraged Indian organizations and historians, was lambasted by critics and tuned out by the audience.

But Maunders walked away unscathed and will return to living rooms in another Western series with costar status.

Similarly, Tony Franciosa had one unhappy season as a playboy in a limp comedy series a few years back but healed his scars quickly enough to be coming back as one of three costars of NBC's 90-minute "Name of the Game."

Phyllis Diller tried a situation comedy that didn't work. She returns this season as star of an NBC variety show.

There is the TV trail blazed by the Smothers Brothers; their one-season comedy-fantasy series didn't work, but their CBS variety hour has been a sensation.

Jack Lord's series about a rodeo rider didn't last long, but he will be the star of CBS' "Hawaii Five-O," a police story. Will Hutchins had a bad time with "Hey, Landlord," a couple of years back, but returns as Dagwood of CBS' "Blondie." His wife will be played by Patricia Harty whose "Occasional Wife" series was dropped after one season.

season.

Stony silence surrounds the sudden action of ABC late last week, notifying Quinn Martin that it was ending its relationship with the producer, except for his successful "FBI" series. Their contract had four more years to run, and Martin had just finished the first of three planned two-hour feature films for ABC.

Martin, who also produced "The Fugitive," would say merely that ABC "has sent us a telegram instructing us to cease all production except 'The FBI'." I can't say anything except there was no prior notice and I have turned the whole matter over to our attorneys.

An ABC spokesman in New York said there was no comment.

The television networks for two seasons jostled and shoved each other to get their new season's product on the air first. This season NBC has scheduled most of its season premieres during the week of Sept. 15.

No place for youth

DAK ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Home Affairs Minister Saldi Maswanya has backed a roundup of prostitutes on this capital's streets, but he has refused to extend the crackdown to concubines. "To interfere with someone's concubine would be a violation of fundamental human rights," he said.

Some authorities say the dolphin has a beak, the porpoise a blunter nose. In the United States most people, including biologists, call all these members of the whale order porpoises.

Liver transplant only hope of life for one-year-old

READING, Pa. (AP) — Jeffrey Jones, a wide-eyed one-year-old boy, plays with toys in his northern Berks County home while his parents wait — hopeful a donor may be found to give Jeff the new liver he needs to perhaps prevent death.

Jeff is stricken with biliary atresia, a disease doctors say almost certainly will take his life unless a transplant is performed.

His mother, Mrs. William B. Jones, a registered nurse, has had her bags packed, at her Rt. 1, Shoemakersville, home since doctors gave her son a year to live.

"The year is up in October," she says.

She waits for a call from Denver, Colo., that a donor has been found.

When Jeff was a month old, his complexion began to yellow. Tests then showed he had the unusual condition in which the liver has no tubes and cannot release bile.

When the Joneses learned of the seriousness of the disease, they began investigating the possibility of a transplant for young Jeff.

Learning of the success of a team of physicians in Denver, Mrs. Jones wrote and was told to have lab tests and medical records sent to the University of Colorado.

Physicians advised her to wait until Jeff was at least a year old, to better withstand the serious operation.

As in all transplant cases, the donor will have to be a child having Jeff's blood type and similar tissue.

So, the Joneses wait, anxiously.

They've made arrangements for the care of their two other children. Mrs. Jones is prepared to stay as long as needed and perhaps work as a nurse in Denver.

The Joneses know that if a donor is not located soon, Jeff will begin to weaken and lose weight as bile builds up in his nonfunctioning liver.

Jeff remains active, though, and apparently without serious pain, Mrs. Jones says. His appetite hasn't been affected either.

Mrs. Jones says it's impossible to tap bile from the liver because tubes aren't formed that could be tapped.

The only hope, apparently, for Jeff is a transplant and doctors say, according to Mrs. Jones, there is only a 50-50 chance it will be successful.

Your tax problems

"Your Tax Problems" is published as a public service and is prepared by the Philadelphia District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Send queries to the Internal Revenue Service Public Information Officer, P.O. Box 12805, Philadelphia, Pa. 19108. For personal replies give name and address.

Q. From time to time I help my married daughter out by making payments on her mortgage. Can I deduct these payments as contributions or take a deduction for the tax and interest portion of the payment?

A. No. Gifts to individuals are not considered charitable deductions and only the person legally responsible for making the mortgage payments is allowed to take the interest deductions permitted.

Q. Is a person who must work to support herself and child permitted to deduct the money she pays for the care of the child?

A. Child care expenses can be deducted from your tax return provided, of course, you itemize deductions. The deduction is limited to what you actually paid, not to exceed $800.00 for the care of one child. The deduction is available to a single, divorced or legally separated woman. A married woman who has been deserted by her husband can also qualify. Document 5652, available at IRS offices, gives more details on this deduction.

Q. Is the three dollars a month I pay for supplementary medicare insurance deductible?

A. Yes, this is considered an allowable medical expense along with other premiums paid for hospital and medical insurance.

Q. I took a net loss of more than $1,000 on some stock I sold last year. Since I can only deduct $1,000 of the loss on my 1967 return, do I lose the rest of it?

A. No, the excess over $1,000 may be carried over to future tax years.

Q. I support my mother's brother but my friends tell me I can't claim him as a dependent since he does not live with us. Is that right?

A. A person does not have to be a member of your household to be claimed as a dependent if he is closely related to you. The law considers an uncle to be a close relation. Therefore, he is not required to be a member of your household.

Q. I moved last year because I changed jobs. Can I take any deduction for my moving expenses?

A. You may be able to deduct some of these expenses if certain conditions are met. The rules for claiming these expenses are covered in the 1040 instructions.

A copy of Form 3803, which may be obtained by dropping a post card to your local IRS office, has further information on this deduction. It must be filed with your 1968 if you are qualified to claim this deduction.

Q. Is there any limit on what you can claim under the minimum standard deduction?

A. Yes, the limit is $500 for married persons filing separately and $1,000 for single persons or married couples filing jointly.

Q. My wife worked a little last year. Since there was no withholding on her salary does that mean we don't have to pay tax on it?

A. No. Income is taxable whether or not it is subject to withholding.

Q. I don't work but do have my own savings account. Is it necessary for me to have a Social Security number?

A. The law requires you to furnish an account number to any payer who is required to report to IRS interest paid you. Check with any IRS or Social Security office for an application form to obtain a number.

If you are married and file a joint return you must report any interest you earn on the account as income.

Q. My buddy says strike payments are taxable while unemployment payments aren't. Is that right?

A. Strike benefits are taxable unless they are clearly intended as a gift. Unemployment payments are not taxable.

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — This will be a day calling for calmness and good judgment. Do not let unexpected situations ruffle you and do not let yourself be pushed into errors.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — In spite of some confusion now, you can handle situations more ably than others, thus enhancing your position. Facing facts and being realistic are two of your best assets. Use them!

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Don't underestimate your inventive ideas. Take advantage of promising aspects to perform in a stimulating Sign's talents. Avoid discord.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — A long, hard day ahead? As a first rate starter, you may sometimes wind up tired, limp. Review progress made. Be eager to plan advance performance — with zest.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Step up energy and join the "get up and go" group. Translate action into laudable effort. Your exuberance is relished by all. Dispense it willingly.

YOU BORN TODAY: Activity is your key word. With this beginning you have many assurances of success since you can step into openings, new spots at any age, and do a bang-up, often brilliant, job. Do not permit individualism to become extreme, nor impulses to get out of hand. Your enthusiasm and expressiveness, well-directed, are high-powered assets. Leoties can antagonize others unwittingly, so be alert. In government and military life, you are intrepid, hardy, daring. Many noted orators, actors and business executives have been Leo-born. Birthdate of: Herman Melville, author.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You have the equipment and training to set a praiseworthy mark now. Planetary aspects are auspicious. Express your thoughts in a clear, lucid manner for best reception.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — No day for non-thinkers. The unproductive will fall by the wayside. Yours is a vibrant Sign, with intense expressive tendencies. Make the most of YOUR skills and talents.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Leave no wide gaps in either plans or schedule. Opportunities are all around you. Make certain that you are in the receiving line early. Steady effort will bring fine rewards.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — The desire for escape from reality is fairly common but that is the "easy way out" and can never prove profitable. Bear this in mind now, when there is a tendency to "drift." Take the right road, as your good judgement and foresight dictates.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — "Prestige," "status," "success" are all too familiar as mere words. The real meanings of these symbols will not be handed to you: You must earn them. You CAN, if acting in conformity with the best of Leo's traits.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Do not fear the future. This could defeat your purposes. Ignorance magnifies dilemma, so be prepared to offset it with a calculated program based on knowledge, and know-how.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't run with the conformists now. A little daring could pay off. If you desire that extra rating and pursue it diligently, advancement will be yours sooner.

Birds top Tribe in fight for 2nd

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A two-run homer by Ellie Hendricks and the six-hit pitching of Tommy Phoebus and one Brabender helped the Baltimore Orioles rally to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night.

Phoebus started for the Orioles but was replaced by Brabender after he gave up back-to-back singles to Russ Snyder and Joe Azcue in the eighth. Brabender got pinch-hitter Jimmie Hall on called strikes and forced Jose Carden al to ground out to end the inning.

Singles by Larry Haney and Dave Johnson and a walk to Curt Blefary filled the bases in the ninth for Baltimore.

The Orioles went into the sixth trailing 2-1. Frank Robinson singled with one out and after John Powell fouled out, Hendricks, who has had only 15 hits this season, hit Sonny Siebert's first pitch over the rightfield fence for his seventh homerun of the season to give Phoebus his 11th victory against 10 losses.

Cleveland's three-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning broke up a pitching duel between Jim Hunter and rookie Bill Harrelson Tuesday and carried the Oakland A's to a 4-1 victory over the California Angels in the first game of a two-night doubleheader.

Hank Aaron's one-man show sinks Mets, beats Kosman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Henry Aaron pounded out two doubles and a single, accounting for his team's runs as the Atlanta Braves edged the New York

Mets, 3-2, Wednesday night. The deciding tally came in the fifth after shortstop Marty Martinez led off with a single and was forced by pitcher Milt Pappas. Felipe Alou singled, and Bob Johnson struck out before Aaron's single drove in Pappas.

The blow dealt Jerry Kosman, the Mets' ace lefthander, his sixth defeat in 20 decisions. Both teams scored twice in the third inning. Hank Aaron's double drove in Pappas, who walked, and Bob Johnson, who singled, to give the Braves a 2-0 lead. The Mets tied the score on a single by Larry Stahl, a hit batsman, a single by Ed Kranepool and a double by Ron Swoboda.

Pappas got credit for the victory to even his record at 7-7, but needed relief help from Claude Raymond in the eighth.

Ann Landers

Parents share credit

Dear Ann Landers: I have two friends — both widows. I like these women very much — until they get on the subject of their families. I am sick to death listening to them brag about their sons — how smart and successful they are, what great fathers they are to their children.

Then they start in on their daughters-in-law. They are dumbbells — no family background, lazy, incompetent, can't do anything right. From there they go on to rave about their grandchildren. They are the most thoughtful, considerate, most popular kids in town. Everyone remarks on their beautiful manners.

Recently I stood it as long as I could. Finally I said, "Please tell me how come the children turned out so well when they had such lazy, dumb mothers?" They lit into me and insisted that the children had been trained by their fathers.

I have six wonderful grandchildren, Ann, and although my son is a fine person, I know his wife deserves 85 per cent of the credit. Please print my letter and comment.

FAIR IS FAIR

Dear Fair: When you see thoughtful, considerate, well-mannered children, it's a pretty safe assumption that both parents worked together to bring up those kids properly. The influence of the mother is usually the greatest, since she is the one who spends most of her time directing and disciplining the children in their formative years. I say your thinking is more nearly correct than your friends.

Dear Ann Landers: May I respond to "Old Starchy" — the R.N. who complained about the way patients treat people who staff hospitals? She said, "Illness does not give a patient the right to be abusive or downright nasty to those whose job it is to take care of them."

Fortunately, Old Starchy's viewpoint that "genuinely nice people remain nice in spite of pain and misery" is not shared weapons you have for overcoming these problems."

Old Starchy seems to have forgotten the creed of the health team. We are neither paragons of detached professionalism nor impersonal tools of technology. We are simply people caring for people.

Dear Mrs. N. L.: We need more people like you. Thanks for writing.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

'Tree of God' for Canadensis

Replacement locust tree struggles toward the sky in Canadensis.

By THOMAS E. REES
CANADENSIS — A quarter of a mile from the village crossroads in Canadensis stands the beautiful stone Moravian Church built on a rock, the outgrowth of a mission started over 100 years ago.
 When the church was built in 1955, the congregation took into consideration a large old elm tree. It may have been 75 years old at the time. It stood in a grassy plot beside the path that leads to the church doors.
 In the shade of the old elm they placed an inviting bench. Many who traveled the road answered the tree's invitation to stop and rest awhile. The church stood open with unlocked doors. In the restful shade and quiet contemplation, many were led to enter, to offer a prayer and draw nearer to God, who in his kindness and wisdom provided trees.
 One Sunday morning last July I stood in front of the church talking to members. Suddenly I realized — something was missing. The tree was gone! As with all things its life had come to an end. Infested with disease, it was cut down.
 The bench stood in the open, unsheltered from sun, wind and rain. As I thought of the tree and its ministry to those who had rested beneath its branches there arose within me an urge to replace the old tree with a new grown one. I could not cast the urge aside. It grew more intense and demanding.

 Developments led me to a nursery 16 miles away, where the nurserymen were enthusiastic and offered to contribute toward its cost.
 They suggested that the tree be replaced with an Improved Honey Locust. Such an airy, small leaved tree would permit the church to be seen. It would be soft in contrast to the solid rock on which the church was built, the stones that made up the church structure. We selected a 37-foot tree that was seven or eight years old, which, when made ready for planting, weighed four tons.

 The Chairman of the Board was asked to secure authority to replace the tree. He was

Former cabinet member dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — John T. Kmetz, 73, former assistant Secretary of Labor and long-time official of the United Mine Workers, AFL-CIO, died Tuesday at his desk at the union's headquarters here.
 Kmetz, who went to work in the coal mines as a boy of 7, had been a member of the union 66 years. He served on its international executive board for the last 31 years and was the union's director of organization.

told that the congregation was not to be solicited to contribute to the cost. He was overwhelmed that an outsider was interested in doing such a thing. Permission was quickly granted.
 Now the problem was: how to secure enough funds to pay for the tree and the work involved in planting it.
 A friend from New York City, who spends much time in the Poconos, said, "Tom, why don't you make it a community effort? Ask for contributions and you can count on me for $100."

Contributions came from all. It was an inter-faith venture. Persons contributed from one dollar to $100. Contacts ranged all over the Poconos and from New York to Philadelphia. Out of 55 persons or organizations that were contacted, 44 contributed.

 The project was initiated Aug. 1 and by Oct. 15 it was completed. The tree had been planted on Columbus Day and was dedicated at the proper church service the following Sunday. When asked to speak at the dedication I said that I felt God had told me to get on!

a tree, this particular tree, and place it in the care of the church for all men.
 The "Canadensis tree" may continue its mission for 75 years or more. When it too has finished its work, there will be those who, revering its purpose, will replace it with another, and a warm salutation of "Carry on!"

FDA raps radiated rations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army insists that irradiated canned bacon is safe for human consumption despite the Food and Drug Administration's decision to stop the military services from feeding it to the troops.

Col. Edward L. Johnson of the Army's food-irradiation laboratories at Natick, Mass., said in a telephone interview that animal tests of the bacon were made prior to the Army's petition to feed it to some troops, and the tests showed "no evidence of any adverse effects from the irradiation."

"There seems to be a difference of opinion in interpreting the data from the tests," said Johnson. "We're hoping to resolve this."

Johnson made the comments on published reports, confirmed by an FDA scientist, that:

1. The FDA has turned down a new Army petition to begin serving irradiated ham to soldiers.

2. The FDA has taken a second look at its 1966 approval of irradiated bacon, and ordered it out of the mess halls pending further study.

The FDA contends there is evidence that irradiated bacon can cause adverse effects on the reproductive process in rats.

Daniel Banes, an associate FDA commissioner for science, said in an interview the animal tests were sponsored by the Army before it petitioned his Agency for approval, but he said the FDA obtained full details on the tests only a few months ago.

Banes said the Army originally stated "that there were no indications that radiation caused adverse effects" in animals fed irradiated bacon.

He also said that when the Army—in 1966 and 1967—began to petition for an okay on irradiated ham, it submitted some raw data on use of irradiated bacon in animals to support its contention that irradiated ham was safe.

But, Banes said, the animal data on the bacon raised questions in the minds of FDA scientists, and they asked for further details. It was after these additional details were furnished that the FDA concluded the data showed a reproductive-process hazard to rats, he said.

Banes said the FDA scientists concluded the data showed a 25 per cent reduction in the number of live-born offspring of rats fed irradiated bacon; and a similar reduction in the number of offspring surviving the weaning period.

"We have had second thoughts on the original bacon petition approval," he said, "and the FDA is taking action to rescind it."

Col. Johnson said that after the FDA's original approval, the Army procured only a single consignment of irradiated bacon in December 1966—approximately 30,000 pounds—and that this "was all fed within a month—half to army troops and half to Air Force men—and was only used for testing purposes." He said the bacon had never been supplied "for general use."

He said the Army, in the wake of questions raised by the FDA both on irradiated ham and bacon, plans additional tests.

With regard to the ham tests, he quoted Dr. Edward S. Josephson, associate director of the Army's Natick laboratories, as saying:

"The really significant question raised by FDA has to do with the data provided on reproductive process. In order to show the safety of irradiated ham, the Army will conduct new animal feeding studies which will cover four generations of weaned rats and take two years."

Banes had said in testimony prepared for the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee that the Army's petition for approval of irradiated ham had revealed "deficiencies in design and execution of experiments."

Senate favors present methods

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to retain the present system of federal responsibility for inspection of meat and poultry products moving in interstate commerce.

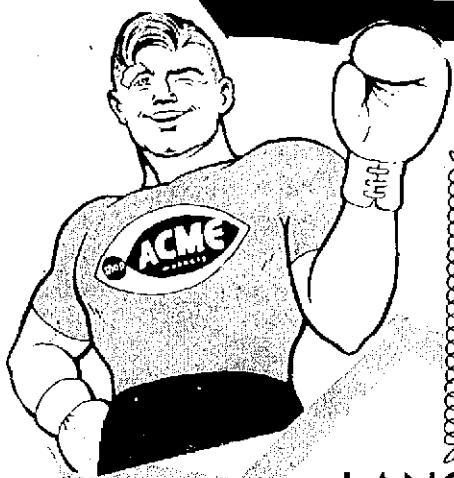

The action overruled the Senate Agriculture Committee, which had proposed to allow interstate shipment of products cleared by state inspection programs that met federal standards.

'Credit cards' for GIs stifle black market

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Command has introduced something like a credit card as its newest weapon against black marketing and dollar profiteering in South Vietnam, Pentagon officials report.

Currency control plates must now be used when a serviceman converts his military script to cash or when he spends it on certain high-priced post-exchange goods.

Troops stationed in Vietnam are paid in scrip, or Military Payment Certificates (MPC), instead of dollars.

The plastic cards are used to stamp special forms which are fed through computers to give U.S. officials in Saigon a constant watch on the volume of converted scrip as well as on PX buying.

For example, if a man converts more than the authorized amount of scrip into dollars or money orders, the computer kicks out a card identifying him and showing all his recent transactions.

The plate also is used in recording all purchases of goods sought by black marketeers: cameras, television sets, tape recorders, stereo systems, radios, airline tickets and other luxury items.

The Pentagon acknowledges that servicemen have been bribed into converting scrip into dollars for money manipulators in Saigon; some have been using illegally obtained scrip to buy PX items for black marketeers.

Scrip was introduced in Vietnam in 1965 as a means of keeping U.S. dollars off the market and easing the impact of American spending on the country's inflated economy.

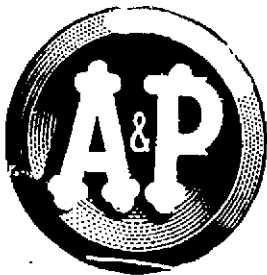

But illicit money manipulation and illegal sales of American goods are a continuing problem. The U.S. Command has been forced to progressively tighten controls over American currency in South Vietnam to curb black market activities.

One of the latest restrictions, Pentagon officials say, went into effect last May: A $200 limit on the amount of scrip a serviceman can convert into cash when he is about to return to the United States.

He can exceed this limit only in the case of personal emergencies and then only with special permission.

The Pentagon says currency controls are needed because the dollar in Vietnam remains "in great demand" and "highly sought after through both legal and illegal means."

Czech crisis dampens Vietnam peace talks

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Less than two months ago, a trip to Moscow by Britain's foreign secretary raised hopes in Paris that the Soviet Union might take a hand in persuading the North Vietnamese to come to terms with the Americans on the Vietnam war. The hope for such a development is diminishing rapidly, and one reason is the Soviet-Czechoslovak crisis.

The United States from time to time has hinted broadly that the Russians, if they had the will to do so, might lend a hand toward insuring some stability in Southeast Asia and relieving that area of the danger of an enlarged war.

Now, however, the hopes of the U.S. delegation to the Paris talks on Vietnam collide with Moscow's troubles with the developing social, economic and political revolution in Czechoslovakia and the threat that a spreading infection in the Red bloc can destroy whatever inclination the Russians might have had toward using their influence in Hanoi.

Indeed, it may be a source of consolation for the Russians that the Vietnam war so preoccupies the United States and requires so much of its power and resources. That leaves Americans in a poor position to take any resolute stand on events in Eastern Europe, and thus diminishes the danger there in whatever moves the Russians may want to make.

While the Soviet Union is in trouble with what it had considered its own Communist empire, it is unlikely to have much enthusiasm for getting the Americans off their hook, nor for suggesting that some progress might be advisable at the talks in Paris.

Soviet leaders may worry that they face unpalatable alternatives in Czechoslovakia: either to retreat and permit the liberalizing movement there to develop, or to use force to stop it. Should the Russians find themselves in a position where they want to resort to military pressure they might consider it fortunate that the Americans are so tied up in Vietnam.

The Russians have shown signs in recent months of willingness to cooperate with the Americans in some fields, such as the effort to stop the spread of nuclear weapons, and in other areas where there are prospective benefits for both sides.

Vietnam now looks like an entirely different kettle of fish. The Russians conceivably, as Hanoi's source of economic and military support, are in a position to pressure North Vietnam in the interests of sealing down a dangerous Asian war. However, Moscow's troubles in Eastern Europe are only beginning. A critical point will be reached in Czechoslovakia in September when an extraordinary congress of the Czechoslovak party will, unless it is stopped, sweep out of authority all the hard-line, pro-Moscow people who for 20 years have been faithful followers of the Kremlin.

Dollar drain not plugged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's drive to mobilize the nation in defense of the dollar has had only spotty success and apparently will fall far short of its goal.

The target set by Johnson on New Year's Day was to cut $3 billion from the nation's 1967 balance of payments deficit, which rose to an ominous figure of $3.57 billion.

In the nearly seven months since, the President's main success was getting Congress to approve a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, which along with an accompanying $6 billion in spending cuts was expected to help restore confidence overseas in the stability of the dollar.

Because the balance of payments deficit—what the United States spent overseas over what it took in—had risen so high there had been concern in the world's banking centers about inflation and the drain on American gold holdings.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler told the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday there had been "a quick and quite substantial recovery" in the first quarter of this year when the payments deficit fell to $606 million.

If the $606 million figures is projected for the rest of the year the deficit would fall only to $2.42 billion.

To reach the relatively negligible deficit figure of $500 million to $600 million, Johnson had sought a combination of legislation and controls, both mandatory and voluntary. These involved:

—A mandatory $1 billion curtailment in direct industry investment overseas.

—A $500 million voluntary reduction on bank loans abroad.

—A $500 million voluntary cut-back in travel outside the country.

—A drop of $500 million in government spending.

—A $500 million savings by enlarging the U.S. surplus in merchandise trade.

Trade—The goal will not be even closely approached. Johnson hoped to increase last year's $4.1 billion surplus in commodity trade to $4.6 billion, by increasing exports and other means. The trade surplus may shrink instead.

Investment—The mandatory curbs on business investment are working. Companies invested a total of $468 million in the first quarter, which is sustained, would cut the outflow of capital in direct investment more than $1 billion from last year's $3.02 billion.
